TONKING TOPICS.

HANOI, August 28th.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

FRANCE AND RUSSIA IN THE EAST.

It is a pas de maitre sans revers, says a French proverb. In truth all sensible, level-headed Frenchmen—and there are many such—are beginning to find the revers of the much-sung alliance with “all the Russians,” anything but a pleasant one. Undoubtedly, the compact was, and is still, both necessary and useful to France so far as European politics are concerned. Her lonely situation, menaced by the terrible combination of the Triple Alliance, product of Bismarck's master brain, was indeed a dangerous one. It was therefore natural that she should be drawn towards Russia, who had herself everything to fear from the ambitious policy of Germany. But amongst the millions of patriotic Frenchmen who rejoiced, with just reason, over the new combination, there were few who imagined that ten years later they would be obliged by the force of circumstances, (borrowed millions make a string upon which a lively time can be played) to uphold, and perhaps fight for, their ally's ambition in the Far East. France's colonies have never paid for themselves, and probably never will so long as they are hedged round by an exorbitant protective tariff. When the late M. Roussieu was Governor-General, Indo-China borrowed 80,000,000 francs from the Metropolis; under the administration of M. Doumer she borrowed 200,000,000; all this to build railways—railways which the colonial press are the first to declare will never pay. To ensure the payment of the interest on the loan, this interest was guaranteed by the State—nearly all the necessities of life to the native have been taxed. Salt, areca nut, tobacco (native), and rice alcohol have been subjected to taxation or turned into State monopolies, which is worse; and now must France, for the ultimate benefit of her Russian friend, build forts, coal stations, considerably increase her naval forces in the China Seas and her colonial army. Yet the sensible, level-headed Frenchman, already mentioned, has no desire for colonial expansion; he knows what it costs. Well then! Yes! but the Anglo-Japanese alliance! “Sh!” the bogey is out of the bag! Poor bogey, he must be tired. Perhaps some day the strings which make him dance will break, the bogey will then have a rest; but the people who pulled those strings will have a very big bill to pay to somebody.

M. DOUMER.

It would be a very hard task to write a detailed history of M. Doumer's long administration in Indo-China. He left France as a Radical politician and his rule, once he had taken over the direction of affairs, was a mixture of that of an Emperor with absolute power and of a commercial traveller of no mean ability. On his arrival he rushed all over the country from north to south and from east to west, at the average speed of 50 miles a day, which is not to be despised in a country where there was only about 100 miles of railway. He visited all his subordinates, and their name is legion. He investigated all the services, residences, public works, custom house etc., and reorganised them. He concluded that all that was then wanted, to ensure the prosperity of the colony, was to endow it with railways. There was no money forthcoming. He went home in a rush; saw the Ministry, interviewed financiers, boomed Indo-China to the skies, and got 200,000,000 francs, or rather the authority to loan them. Railways have been built and others are building. Some run through the fertile delta land; others will run through miles and miles of mountains which produce nothing but fevers and many wild animals; though these last will perhaps ultimately penetrate into the Yunnan. But that is another story. The lines which are built bring no goods from the interior. The rice, which is mostly exported to Hongkong, comes down to Haiphong in junks by the numerous and splendid waterways which run far up into the country. Where will it all end? The interest on the loan must be paid. The native does the best part of that. The capital must also be paid in instalments. Only Governors-General and their aides who go in for that mysterious art called Budget-making will know who does that. The late Governor was also desirous of extending his territories. It was at his earnest instigation that the port of Kuang-chau-wan was annexed, to serve as a coaling station to the fleet. It will cost many millions before that can be realized. In 1900 during the Boxer troubles he would have hailed an incident in the Yunnan, an incident which would have been a pretext for invasion. The invasion was prepared, a force was organised; but the incident never came; for the French Foreign Office was wise. The consul, M. François, was recalled, and Frenchmen who stayed were warned that they did so on their own responsibility. M. Doumer desired that the Republic should have a pledé à terre at Macao, he wanted Hainan badly, and implied that it was the duty of France to occupy Siam. In a word, he was a born empire maker. This is perhaps very well in a way, but it is doubtful if it is the desire or to the interests of the French colonists and merchants who have invested their capital in and founded their hopes on Indo-China. New territory means numerous new functionaries and new taxes besides, and this is not the dream of the French colonial.

HAIPHONG'S POLICE FORCE.

I see, according to the Courrier de Haiphong, one of the best informed journals of the colony, that I considerably underrated the weakness of the police force in that port. According to this confère the municipality only disposes of one policeman to patrol the streets at night. No wonder burglars abound. The other members of the force are either on leave, or detached on some outside service. However, if that lonely policeman manages to get through the 40 miles about, of Haiphong's streets each night, he should be in fit form to break all sprinting records.

THE SIAMESE QUESTION.

Things look anything but serene Siamwards. The Tonkin press states that the Government have the intention of occupying Korat and Bassac. Is there not an Anglo-French Convention dated January 15th, 1896, signed in Paris, according to the terms of which, both these powers make formal promise not to occupy any point in the basin of the Mekong river or its tributaries unless by mutual consent? Bassac is on the right bank of that river and Korat is on a tributary of the same, and situated about 120 miles N.E. of Bangkok. It is interesting to note that Ouban and Battambang, both in Siamese territory, were occupied by the French troops on the 15th May last. Does our Foreign Office ignore this, or is it another graceful capession?

GENOA STRIVING TO OUTSTRIP MARSEILLES.

The last report of the French Consul at Genoa, in which that official showed the great efforts which the Italian port is making to outstrip Marseilles and how rapidly, in fact, it is overtaking its rival, has attracted much attention in Paris. The French Consul, seeking to explain this rapid change, naturally referred to the frequent strikes in the French port as one of the chief causes. But the French Conservative organs, not content with this explanation, have all along held that, if Marseilles was losing ground, it was because, like Roubaix, it had accepted a Collectivist municipality and been afflicted with a Collectivist mayor. The Temps now gives the weight of its authority to this view of the case. For Marseilles has, at yesterday's elections, at last shaken off the tyranny of the more extreme school of Socialists, and the Temps implies to-night that the general decline of the port is a movement now bound to be arrested. The argument is evidently a dangerous one. It is not even clear that the relatively greater rapidity of the rise of the port of Genoa is due to the numerous strikes at Marseilles, and it is still less clear that it was due to the mayoralty of Dr. Flaissières, who happens to be a Collectivist.

GOTHENBURG CATHEDRAL.

CLOSED THROUGH FEAR OF A WHOLESALE COLLAPSE.

The Cathedral of Gothenburg, built in 1818, is threatened with the danger of collapse. The experts, who have made a careful examination of the base of the tower, which is 178 ft. high, declare that the piles on which it was erected are completely rotten, and they express apprehension as to the safety of the edifice, which has, in consequence, been closed.

QUAKES IN ITALY.

CAUSE PANIC TO THE PEOPLE OF MANY PLACES.

Much terror was caused recently to many towns in Italy by shocks of earthquake varying in intensity and lasting from three to nine seconds at a time. The motion was felt most severely at Lucca, Genoa, Pisa, Spezia, Massa, and Pontedera; while it was also observed in Carrara, Rome, Siena, Florence, Padua, and Rocca di Papa. The shocks all occurred just about the same time, at twenty-five to twenty minutes before midnight. No damage is reported, but the panic in some towns was great. At Spezia and Massa in particular the people rushed out of their houses and remained in the streets for the whole night.

CHINA'S FEATHERED ORACLES.

The crow is in China regarded as an omen of evil, against which a Chinese mutters an invocation, and so unlucky that he will postpone any affair he is about to undertake (writes the Queen). Unlike our forefathers, he regards the appearance of a single magpie as a piece of good luck. If a duck happens to quack when he is passing he takes that to be an ill omen. And yet the figure of a duck bearing a human image is an important item in certain commemorations of deceased persons. The hen, another domestic bird, is also ominous, and in China the crowing of a hen is a serious matter, and in order to learn whether the omen is good or bad the position of the bird has to be observed when she crows. If towards the side or front of the premises the sign is bad, but if towards the rear it is good. Few families care to keep a crowing hen, and it is soon got rid of; and so is the cock which happens to crow at or in at night. Our own well-known rhyme is cited as an illustration—

A whistling woman and crowing hen
Are neither fit for God nor men.

The flight of swallows is another omen in China, as it was among the Romans and Greeks, and a Chinaman will not wilfully kill a swallow. On various accounts this is regarded with favour in other countries; probably much as the robin is here at home, unless it is rash enough to come unbidden into a house. Generally it is guarded by the couplet—“The robin and the Jenny Wren are God Almighty's cock and hen,” or some variant of it. What was said of the duck above is applicable to the crane, so far as the paper image is concerned, because it is supposed to convey the spirit of the deceased, along with divers articles, upon its unseen journey.

UNHEALTHY DEVELOPMENT OF THE TRUST SYSTEM.

Count Matsukata, who is on the point of leaving Russia for Japan, travelling via the Siberian route, in the suite of Prince Komatsu, discussed with a correspondent at St. Petersburg M. Witte's proposal to call a congress to consider what action could be taken to put a stop to the unhealthy development of the trust system, and admitted that he did not regard the suggestion as at all practicable. He did not see what good such a congress would do, and he expressed the opinion that some of the great modern syndicates were more likely to end in failure than in success. He also spoke of the difficulty experienced by China in paying the indemnity to the Powers, and said it was but another proof of the inconvenience of maintaining a silver standard. He hoped that the lesson would not be without effect on the Chinese Government, and would lead them to adopt the more stable gold standard. The representatives of the Powers would, however, have done better if they had stipulated that the indemnity should be assessed in English money, as was done at the close of the war between China and Japan.

STORM-BOUND.

FAMOUS ALPINE CLIMBER'S ADVENTURE.

One of the most exciting chapters in the history of Alpine exploration is the story which has just come to hand of the daring adventure of Miss G. Bell, of London, a famous Alpine climber.

The lady had determined to attempt the ascent of the Finsteraarhorn over the ridge on the eastern side, hitherto deemed impracticable. A good start was made in company with the well-known guides Ulrich and Heinrich Huber from the Grimsel hospice.

CRUISING AMONG THE ROCKS.

During the first day the little party was surprised by a terrific thunderstorm, which rendered advance impossible. They were in an extremely dangerous position at the time, but made their way to a little niche in the rocks, a perfectly inadequate shelter, in which they crunched, waiting patiently through the long hours for the storm's fury to expire.

The lightning, which was intensely vivid, played round the spot and even struck Miss Bell's ice axe. Heavy stones crashed down from above and a fearful fall of rain and snow came on, which, as the night slowly deepened, seemed to show no abatement.

BACK TO THE GLACIER.

When the dawn at last came they crept out, cramped and frozen, to find everything covered with the dense fall of snow. To go on was to court certain death, so they reluctantly decided to attempt the hazardous return by the glacier of the Finsteraarhorn. Words can scarcely describe the thrilling danger of the journey, where every path was obliterated, where every pace was gained at the risk of life, and where, in fact, no one but the most skilled and experienced of guides could have proceeded without certain destruction.

All day, laboriously and cautiously, they toiled, until, to their intense satisfaction, they reached the glacier by night-fall. Here again, soaked to the skin, almost rigid with cold, and faint with hunger, they passed a fearful night. What little devices could be resorted to to improve their miserable position they tried, tying their feet in the long-empty food bags and using their ropes as pillows; and it speaks well for their pluck and endurance that through this most trying episode they kept up their courage and never despaired of reaching safety.

THE PLUCKY CLIMBER.

Finally on the third day they braved the elements and the dangerous descent, and made their way back to Grimsel, where the utmost anxiety had reigned as to their fate.

Miss Bell was surrounded by half-weeping friends, delighted at her return and proffering all kinds of comforts and advice. “Give me first,” said the dauntless lady, “a toothbrush. I must have a bath. Then some cigarettes. I am dying for a smoke. In the meantime get me a good hot dinner ready. And then I am going to bed.”—Exchange.

THE WORD OF HONOUR.

The men who do as they say; the things that prove to be what they were said to be—how cheering it is to come upon them. We all hate to be deceived; especially when the deception is intentional. But all men are not liars, even if David did say so in his haste. If they were society would be impossible. Everybody knows that business is based on credit, on faith. Millions are bought daily on nothing more solid than the pledged promises of men, not written, merely verbal. The Stock Exchanges are often called nests of gamblers, yet nowhere is a promise held in greater honour. Therefore when we say that the tried and effective modern remedy called “Vampole's Preparation” never deceives any who resort to it in hope of benefit and cure, we may expect to be believed. For this assurance is given on what it has done in the past in countless cases, on its record. It is only recommended to accomplish what it was made to accomplish. Its action in Chlorosis, Anemia, La Grippe, General Debility, Throat and Lung Troubles, Blood Impurities, etc. is convincing. It is palatable as honey and contains the nutritive and curative properties of Pure Cod Liver Oil, extracted by us from fresh cod livers, combined with the Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites and the Extracts of Malt and Wild Cherry. Dr. Austin D. Irvine, of Canada, says: “I have used it in cases where cod liver oil was indicated but could not be taken by the patient, and the results following were very gratifying.” It is effective from sensitive and nervous stomachs. It cannot deceive or disappoint you, and comes to the rescue of those who have received no benefit from any other treatment. It stands for the medical triumphs of the age. Sold by all chemists here.

THE SECOND VOLUME OF BOX'S EXCHANGE TABLES with Rates in 1/16ths from 1/10 to 1/16 down to 1/8d, is now on Sale at THE “HONGKONG TELEGRAPH” OFFICE. These Tables, which run in columns of 100, from £999 down to £1, and from 19/11 down to 1d or from 999 down to 1 cent, enable the user to arrive at the value in Dollars of any sum in Sterling under £1,000 by simply adding the equivalent of the Shillings and Pence to that of the Pounds; or to get the value in Sterling of any Sum of Dollars and Cents under $1,000 by adding the equivalent of the Cents to that of the Dollars. By these simple means of computation a very considerable saving of time and trouble, besides securing a ready means of proving accuracy is secured, as illustrated in the following examples. To reduce £879.17.11 into Dollars at Exchange 1/10 1/16—

17. 11 = 9.745
$9,571.671

whereas with the other exchange books the process would be as follows—

£800. 0. 0 = $8,702.550
79. 0. 0 = 781.475
9. 0. 0 = 97.924
17. 11 = 9.745
$9,571.671

or to convert the dollars into sterling at the same rate of exchange—

$9,000.00 = £827.610. 8
571.00 = 52.9. 9.11
—671. = 1. 2.13

879.17.11.00 but by other books it would be—
$9,000.00 = £827.610. 8
500.00 = 45.19. 3.4
700.00 = 6. 2.47
1,000.00 = 1.10. 1
400.00 = 1. 1. 3
70.00 = 1. 1. 9
1.00 = 1

879.17.11.00 Every care has been taken in compiling these Tables to insure their accuracy and even as the book was being printed the last impression of each sheet was taken and carefully rechecked by two separate persons and any little errors in reading which will crop up in such works as these are carefully corrected in each copy before it is issued, thus making it a most accurate and useful book. Price for this and the previous volume, $10 per copy.

An Eruption at St. Vincent.

LONDON, September 7th.
The Soufriere of St. Vincent, West Indies, was in eruption from nine in the evening of the 3rd instant until eleven in the morning of the 4th. This outbreak has been of longer duration and more violent than the first.

Demonstration by Nationalists.

PHOENIX PARK MEETING.
LONDON, September 5th.
Ireland is stirred into a ferment over the extension of the Crimes Act, particularly as regards Dublin. The Nationalists are actively aggressive, and display a degree of bitterness which gives the authorities no little concern. They are calling a monster demonstration in Phoenix Park, Dublin, for next Sunday, to protest against the measure. The Government is now considering the advisability of prohibiting the meeting. It is further reported on the best authority that the Government will in all probability proclaim the United League an illegal association. The Cabinet seems fully alive to the fact that the state of Ireland calls for drastic measures.

The Emperor's Visit to Posen.

BERLIN, September 4th.
The visit of H.M. the Emperor to Posen was the occasion of a very strong German demonstration against the Polish pretensions. The news that the building limitations caused by the old fortifications of Posen will be removed and the city be given the opportunity of full development beyond the former precincts, was received by the population with general rejoicings.

The Emperor's Toast.

The Emperor toasted during the dinner following the parade, the Tsar and the Russian Army, with which the German Army was allied through many wars. He then called attention to the hanging cords which he was wearing and which he had exchanged with the Tsar as a token of their personal friendship. According to Tsar Nicholas' own words, said the Emperor, they will be a link of the strong chain which was embracing both monarchs in true friendship.

CANTON NOTES.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

CANTON, September 8th.

U. S. CONSUL.

The United States Consul, Hon. R. M. McWade, leaves Canton this afternoon for Shanghai in the United States. Consul McWade reached Canton just before the troubles of 1900 broke out and has been hard at work ever since. He has been a hard working and successful consul. For the assistance which he rendered the government during the trouble and for the "Missionary Regulations" which he prepared and had accepted by the French Consul and by the Viceroy he was recommended to the throne by Tao Mu for "decoration" and received the "double dragon" Consul McWade will be absent three months, and on his return will be accompanied by Mrs. McWade who is at present in the United States.

GOVERNOR-ELECT SICK.

It is reported here this morning that the new governor for Kwangung is sick in Shanghai and his arrival here will be delayed. It seems that Tao Mu has the fates against him. He is very anxious to be relieved from the duties of Viceroy but his release is made dependent upon the arrival of the new governor.

EXECUTIONS.

The Pun U magistrate had thirteen robbers beheaded at the official execution grounds yesterday.

FIRE.

A fire broke out in Chai Yam street yesterday afternoon and burned fiercely for some time. Two or three shops were destroyed.

SHUN TAK.

The conditions of things in the district of Shun Tak are very unsatisfactory. The failure of the mulberry crop and the heavy rains have driven many of the poorer class to robbery as a living. The latest plan is to kidnap people and hold them for ransom. Several rich men have been kidnapped and were only released after large sums had been paid. Travel is unsafe and few men of wealth venture from home. Those who can afford it employ a guard of soldiers about their homes. This, however, is not a very great protection as the soldiers are open to the highest bidder. The officials do nothing to improve this unsatisfactory state of affairs.

THE KWANGSI REBELLION.

ACTIVITY NEAR NANNING.

A dispatch from Wuchow, Kwangsi, reports that not long ago, in response to an urgent appeal from Ting Chen-to, Governor of Kwangsi, Viceroy Tao Mu of Canton sent to the aid of that Governor a force of some 1,500 men, belonging to the An Brigade, or Gendarmerie of Canton city and suburbs, who are better armed than the general run of the territorial forces of the Two Kwang provinces. Before these reinforcements could get as far as Linchou they were, however, attacked by a body of rebels of similar strength and equally well armed, with the result that after several fiercely contested actions the Cantonese troops were finally routed and compelled to retreat with great loss to Wuchow, after losing the majority of their arms, reserve ammunition and baggage. H.E. Wang Chih-chun, the new Governor of Kwangsi, happened to be in the vicinity of Wuchow at this time with 5,000 modern armed Hunan "braves" brought down by him from Anhui, and H.E. has ordered the defeated An Brigade to be incorporated with his army. With these troops the new Governor intends to march against the main rebel force and hold the vicinity of NANNING and other prefectures in that neighbourhood, after taking over the seals of the Kwangsi Governorship from H.E. Ting Chen-to, who is en route from Kueilin, the provincial capital, for Wuchow, to hand over the post to the new Governor. In the meanwhile, added to the unsettled condition of the place, Linchou prefecture, which is not far from Kueilin, has again been badly flooded, causing much distress and suffering to the inhabitants, who are in consequence abandoning their homes wholesale so that, unless affairs mend, Linchou and vicinity are in danger of becoming a howling wilderness by next year.—N. C. Daily News.

Another incident relating to royalty was the presence of the Duchess of Marlborough, Stretley, who, at the express desire of the Queen, sat in exactly the same spot she occupied at the Coronation of Queen Victoria. ## SCENES AT THE CORONATION.

THE KING UNNERVED.

From Vancouver exchanges we take the following interesting account of the actual Coronation ceremony in the Abbey:—

In Westminster Abbey the scene was nothing less than marvellous. Nearly seven thousand members of the nobility, the clergy, and gentry had gathered, with foreign princes, ambassadors, Colonial rulers, Indian potentates and leaders from the furthest quarter of the globe where the Union Jack flies, to do honour to the King. Two incidents in the service in the Abbey will live in the memory of all those who witnessed them. The first of these, which almost developed into a dramatic contretemps, occurred round the aged Archbishop of Canterbury. From the commencement of the service the Archbishop had the greatest difficulty in reading or remembering the prayers. The book from which his almost blind eyes endeavoured to read looked on his table, and when he came to upon the King, his huge frame, towering above the seated King, swayed so violently that the Bishop of Winchester had to support him, while the Dean of Westminster put a guarding hand under the crown. It was evident that the Archbishop of Canterbury could not see the King's head, and, after groping round, he was unable to complete the most important part of the ceremony, when it was discovered that he had the crown with the back to the front. Heavily he raised it, but too late to prevent the crown from prematurely falling out with a loud clatter. The King and Queen, at a tension that had grown to a pitch of almost nervousness, the Archbishop finally managed to place the crown on the King's head.

PLACE THE CROWN

A few minutes later came the time of his coronation. He was kneeling to do the first homage to all the subjects of the King, when suddenly he almost faintly, and with a fall, fell to the ground, his head striking the floor.

THE KING'S RECOVERY

grasped both the Prince's hands and lifted him to his feet. The Bishop of London, Winchester and Durham clasped their arms round the Archbishop of Canterbury, the King kissed his wrinkled hand, the Archbishop's head fell back, his feet moved slowly and mechanically, and thus he was more carried than led from the throne to St. Edward's Chapel, where he was revived.

The terror which this event caused had scarcely subsided when another exquisitely human touch varied the proceedings, and the King was forgotten in the father. Instead of merely accepting the homage of the Prince of Wales, the King put his arms round the Prince of Wales and kissed him, and then recalled him and wrung his hand with a manliness of parental affection that brought tears to the eyes of many.

To those who were able to see clearly these two episodes, the magnificence of the jewelled women, the splendour of the uniformed men, and even the historic grandeur of the Coronation itself, sank almost into secondary interest.

The Associated Press learned that the King was greatly unnerved by the condition of the Archbishop of Canterbury, and that His Majesty sat in constant dread of a contretemps, though outwardly calm, as could be judged from the steadiness with which he held his sceptre erect during the ordeal.

This brave show, however, did not deceive the Queen. Throughout the service, and especially as the Archbishop of Canterbury became more and more nervous, Her Majesty palpably dreaded that the King would break down. With keen anxiety she constantly turned toward her husband, watching him intently throughout the ceremony. Her graceful dignity and solicitude for the King was one of the most charming features of the proceedings in the Abbey. Her Majesty's appearance won extravagant encomiums, especially from the women, many of whom declared that the Queen did not look a day over thirty-five.

THE QUEEN'S OWN CROWNING was brief and simple. When the four duchesses went to hold a canopy over Her Majesty's head, the Duchess of Marlborough and the Duchess of Portland led the way. They performed their duties excellently.

As the critical moment for which the peeresses had long practised, the putting on of their coronets at the moment the Queen was crowned, approached, a flutter of nervousness ran through their ranks, and then all their arms suddenly went up, and coronets, large and small, were put in place. For the next five minutes the peeresses disregarded what passed before them; first one and then the other turned round for advice and help. Among the philosophical peeresses was the American, Mrs. Lady Staff, who placidly allowed her coronet to remain sideways, neither asking nor receiving help. Among the curious features connected with the American peeresses, was the wearing by Lady Craven of old family robes, once worn by the Queen of Bohemia, who married a former Earl Craven.

Another incident relating to royalty was the presence of the Duchess of Mecklenburg-Stretley, who, at the express desire of the Queen, sat in exactly the same spot she occupied at the Coronation of Queen Victoria.

No strange effect could have equalled the climax that ensued the moment the Crown was placed upon the King's head, the sudden illumination by hundreds of electric lights making the

OUR LONDON LETTER.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

LONDON, August 8th.

THE FAR EAST.

There has been quite a feverish interest in Far Eastern affairs exhibited by several papers London and Provincial this week, and many of the articles have been exceedingly interesting and well-informed. The time of year may account for these unwonted favours, but whatever the cause let us be thankful for small attentions. Yesterday the Daily Chronicle devoted a column to the consideration of French action in South China and Siam, more especially in respect of those rumours of land-hunger which have been current for some time in Hongkong, but which the slower home mind has barely assimilated. The railway projects of our French neighbours are also touched on and the political use to which French Roman priests are often induced to put their spiritual influence.

If China folk were really desirous of bringing home to the English mind the dangers to which our position is already exposed by France on the one hand and Germany on the other they must beset themselves more than has as yet been the case. I find among that unfortunately small number of persons who not being interested in the East by means of residence, yet endeavour to follow intelligently the course of events out there, that the designs of Russia are understood, and the commercial measure of Germany to a certain extent noted, but that action of France is entirely overlooked. No doubt there is partly due to the extreme unpopularity of things French at the present time on the one hand, and the innate almost unconscious distrust of Russia which characterises the British. But largely, I think, the credit of carrying forward her own policy with out exciting English jealousy is due to France herself and the skilful use of men and means which has distinguished her recent acts during the last year or two. A few more temperate and logical articles like that in the Chronicle would be of great service.

Admiral Seymour in a letter to the Times of Wednesday, on the subject of the withdrawal of the international troops for Shanghai, draws attention to the great and quite insufficiently appreciated services of the Nagato and Viceroy during the Boxer troubles. The letter is a well-timed addition to the controversy in progress. Quite apart from the withdrawal of the troops about which English public opinion so far as it can be said to exist is quite in accordance with the views of the Admiral, it may be that a little reiteration of facts will bring home to the official mind, that political expediency, no less than gratitude, dictates an attitude of graceful conciliation and courteous consideration towards the two statesmen whose moderation and honest desire for reform has more than once saved not only China but Europe from an extremely awkward position.

H.M. THE KING.

In the midst of most unpropitious weather, the King arrived in London on Wednesday evening preparatory for the great ceremony to-morrow. Every one was gratified—and insurance men much relieved—to notice how well and strong he looked. His Majesty is somewhat thinner which makes the facial lines more marked, but that, and the fact that he walks more carefully than of yore, are the only traces of his recent illness. His colour is healthy, the voice clear and firm, carriage upright and though he makes use of his stick it is not in a way sufficiently marked to suggest the conscious need of support. Despite the frequent heavy showers, the King ordered the royal carriage to be thrown open, and to drive at a walking pace by a circuitous route to the Palace, orders which gave general satisfaction not only in themselves but as indicating that the day's travelling had not unduly tried the strength of the Royal convalescent.

Meanwhile rehearsals are in daily progress at the Abbey, with the members of the Court to represent their Majesties—it is probable that the King may himself be present at the final one this afternoon. There is little anxiety now felt as to any postponement on His Majesty's account; unless anything quite unforeseen occurs the King will without doubt be crowned to-morrow but the most mournful forebodings prevail respecting the weather. The meteorological office is entirely pessimistic, and even the most sanguine of non-scientific individuals experience difficulty in bearing up hopefully against the October days of storm and cold which alternate with the climatic conditions proverbially associated with April. Mackintosh is "the only wear," and its warmest votaries cannot describe the garment as festive.

THE TAM O' SHANTER.

Speaking of clothes reminds me that your lady readers may be interested to hear of the vogue which the Tam O' Shanter has recently acquired. Sailor hats are entirely tabooed outside of school-room circles, and active femininity has sighed for some head gear equally simple for wear on wet and windy days, or when engaged in outdoor amusements.

Last autumn saw the tentative entry of the "tammy" for this purpose. It had been associated for two or three seasons with ladies' hokey to-mos, and did not at first find favour in other walks of life. Still its use extended among girls during the winter, and at Cowes this week it became evident that the "tammy" had been received into fashionable circles. Quite a number of smartly-dressed women—the younger ones, that is, of course—completed their yatching costumes with a white, blue, or scarlet Tam O' Shanter, and above a well-coiffed head of fluffy hair it looks extremely well. Moreover the "tammy" is warm, soft, comfortable, and never blows off or gets crooked!

THE WEIHAIWEI CONTINGENT.

A fire broke out in the quarters of the Chinese Regiment at Wellington barracks a night or two ago, causing great excitement for a time. No one was hurt, most of the troops being at the time out of barracks, but some damage was done to the building and the effects of a number of the men were most unfortunately destroyed. This is rather a heavy blow, as soldier like, they have been accumulating small treasures and keepsakes ever since their arrival. How the fire originated is still a mystery.

A DISGRACE TO CHRISTIANITY.

The painful case of the Rev. J. Blesby, an Anglican priest, who after twenty-three years' service has been compelled to enter the Work-house, has attracted much notice this week. The unfortunate cleric unable to get an appointment owing to his age had been for three years without employment, during which time he sold his library and effects to buy food. Being now quite at the end of his resources, and having received in reply to 470 applications, the answer that "a Curate under 35" was required, Mr. Blesby was compelled to take this degrading step. The case does not stand alone, and lay the Church in this land open to deservedly severe criticism.
